DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

This Office Action is in response to the Amendment filed on April 2, 2004.

Accordingly, claim 4 was amended, and new claims 27-30 were added.

Currently, claims 1-5, 11 and 27-30 are pending in the application.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to the pending claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3, 11 and 27-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being by Pan (US 4,983,250), submitted by Applicant in IDS.

Re claims 1-3 and 11, Pan discloses in Figs. 1-3 a method comprising: applying photo-thermal energy 20 (laser beam) to a layer 18 of first material (metal) disposed on a layer 16 of second material (metal) to diffuse a portion of the first material 18 into the second material 16, wherein the photo-thermal energy 20 penetrates at least into the layer 18 of first material such that the diffusing forms an electrically conductive trace 22, 24 [see col. 3, ln. 1 to col. 4, ln. 8].

Art Unit: 2822

Re claims 27, Pan expressly discloses in Figs. 1 and 2 the first material 18 comprises a bottom surface and the first material 18 diffuses into the second material 16 such that an alloy 22, 24 is formed below the bottom surface of the first material 18.

Re claims 28, since Pan discloses the use of a laser beam 20 to diffuse a portion of the first material 18 into the second material 16, it should be inherent that such laser beam causes the first material 18 and the second material 16 to ablate into a plasma.

Re claims 29, Pan discloses the laser 20 is provided to pattern a desired pattern of electrically conductive traces [see col. 3, ln. 25-27].

Re claims 30, Pan discloses in Fig. 3 removing non-diffused portions of the first material 18 [see col. 3, ln. 59-66].

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Art Unit: 2822

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Pan in view of Mori et al. (US 5,821,627).

Re claim 4, Pan fails to disclose the first material includes tin, the second material includes copper, and the electrically conductive trace includes a copper tin alloy.

Mori et al. (hereinafter "Mori"), cited in previous Office Action, suggests performing solid-phase diffusion bonding between two metals including copper and tin [see col. 9, ln. 5 to col. 10, ln. 64].

Since Pan and Mori are both from the same field of endeavor, the purpose disclosed by Pan would have been recognized in the pertinent prior art of Mori

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the process of Pan by utilizing copper and tin as taught by Mori, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 227 F.2d 197, 125 USPQ 416 (CCPA 1960).

Art Unit: 2822

Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Pan.

Re claim 5, Pan discloses the process steps and elements previously as described, but fails to show the laser beam having a width between about 2 mils and about 8 mils.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to employ a laser beam having the width as claimed, since it has been held that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or working ranges involves only routine skill in the art. In re Aller, 220 F.2d 454, 456, 105 USPQ 233, 235 (CCPA 1955).
